Dynamics CRM Developers – multiple roles

Simient is a Microsoft Gold Partner known for solving complex business problems for our many clients through high quality information management solutions. We work in industries that make a difference and with clients who are passionate - we feel the same about the services we deliver.

Simient values client and staff feedback and has a continual focus on challenging and supporting our people to excel. Our people are our strength. Simient is a values-driven organisation. Our people live the values of the company in every aspect of our work.

Due to a number of exciting new projects starting in 2018, we are looking for multiple experienced and passionate CRM Developers to join our Brisbane team. These positions will utilize your expertise to support, design and develop Dynamics CRM solutions to the delight of our clients.

We are looking to recruit CRM Developers into both Junior and Senior positions to work on varied large-scale projects utilising bespoke development and customisation skills. These are hands-on roles and you must have a good understanding of software development and trends in the latest Microsoft technologies.

Working across multiple projects, your responsibilities will include:

- Provide development and support for new and existing Dynamics CRM customers, including plugins, javascript and webresources.

- Provide advice to the customer based on your expert product knowledge.
- Write functional and technical specifications and other supporting documentation.
- Configure and customise software according to specifications.
- Assist with system integration and user acceptance testing.

Successful applicants will come to us with:

- A University qualification in IT and preferably relevant Microsoft Certifications.
- Experience in Dynamics CRM, including plugin and web resource development.
- Solid .NET experience including C#, ASP.NET, web services, and/or Win forms with SQL Server databases.
- Exposure to, or an interest in, learning other technologies (such as ASP.NET MVC, WebAPI, AngularJS) or other Microsoft Server products (such as BizTalk, SharePoint, SQL Server) will be an advantage.
- Experience in a consulting capacity will be highly regarded but is not essential for all roles.

Simient offers a great remuneration package and benefits including:

- The opportunity to work across multiple projects.
- Feel supported working in a diverse and inclusive culture.
- Five full days of training per annum. Become Microsoft Certified at our expense and we will pay you a bonus as well if you're successful.

- Flexible working arrangements to support the needs of our people and the needs of our clients.
- Your professional goals and career ambitions are important to us. Simient's Career Development Framework is designed to assist in making those possible.

We are always looking for great people to join the SIMIENT team. Apply directly to jobs@simient.com or check out our active positions at www.simient.com.
