

Simient is an IT Software business looking for a passionate software developer to join our team in implementing and integrating with the Microsoft Dynamics platform.

We are a values-based organisation committed to excellence in a culture of learning and teamwork.

Simient is a well-established company with many government clients in Health, Education, Justice as well as commercial clients across Australia. Our vision is a world where systems are elegantly designed, well utilized and vital to our client's successful outcomes.

In addition to being aligned to our values, the successful applicant will be someone who has:

- Demonstrated ability to configure, customise and integrate with Microsoft Dynamics CRM 365 (Online and On-premise)
- 1- 5 years' experience in the implementation of Microsoft Dynamics CRM based solutions
- Understanding and practicing the SDLC, and ability to take on other roles as required, such as gathering requirements, design, deployment, testing and training
- Demonstrated experience in developing solutions with ASP.net, JavaScript, SQL Server, C#, and Web Services
- Experience with SSIS and SSRS are desirable
- Previous consulting experience desirable
- Experience with agile methodologies desirable
- Good presentation and excellent written and verbal communication skills
- Current Microsoft Certifications will be highly regarded

Simient offers a great remuneration package and benefits, also:

- The opportunity to work across a variety of new projects and industries
- Feel supported working in a diverse and inclusive culture
- Working in an experienced agile development company
- Support and guidance for your career development

The successful applicant will become a valued team member and have opportunity for progression in technical skills, consultation and leadership, and contribute to the company's processes and growth.

Our values are Collaboration, Accountability and Continual Improvement. Our people live the values of the company in every aspect of our work.

If you this sounds like you and you are ready to grow and take on your next challenge, then please apply today!